

SCHMITZ ON THE STAND ROUTS HIS ENEMIES

ABE RUEFIS CALLED

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—Abe Ruef was called to the stand at 3:30 this afternoon to try and refute the statements made by Mayor Schmitz. He testified against the Mayor.

At 3:30 o'clock Prosecutor Heney Said: "Call Abe Ruef!"

Such a buzz of excitement swept through the big crowd that Judge Dunne threatened to adjourn court and clear the room if the disturbances were repeated.

"Mr. Ruef," said Heney, "in July of 1903, in the house 2845 Fillmore street, the home of Mayor Eugene E. Schmitz, did you give Mr. Schmitz $2,500?"

"Don't answer that question," interposed Mr. Campbell, and he began the statement of a lengthy objection.

Throughout the period of Mr. Campbell's objection, more than ten minutes, Ruef sat quietly in the witness chair, his hands loosely clasped in his lap, his knees crossed, his gaze sustaining the stare of the whole house. He showed no outward emotion, except that he was very pale.

Despite Advice of Counsel the Mayor Forced the Issue With Heney and Disconcerted the Prosecution by Free and Open Answers to All Questions.

Denied He Had Told Reagan to Close Up Restaurants; Denied Reagan Had Told Him of a $28,000 Sack and Denied the Incriminating Part of Conversation With Joe Malfanti.

By JOSEPH E. BAKER

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—This morning Mayor Schmitz took the stand, defied the prosecution to do its worst, boldly challenging Heney to bring on Ruef or anybody else in rebuttal.

On cross-examination he took the bit in his teeth, cast aside the advice repeatedly given by counsel to refuse to answer improper questions, and denied that Ruef ever informed him that he got a fee in the French restaurant cases, or ever paid him a cent of the money. Again and again Campbell strenuously objected to Heney's questions, and almost pleaded with Schmitz not to answer them, notwithstanding the command of the court, but the mayor, with a calm and unruffled, but determined front, said he was ready to answer them, and he did.

Point blank, without hesitation or equivocation, he flung his denials square into Heney's face. It was a dramatic moment. There was a tense hush in the court room. The nerve, candor and courage of Schmitz won him the respect of his enemies. Even Heney dropped his snarling tones and insulting manner in putting his interrogatories.

Judge Dunne opened wide the door to a general cross-examination when the mayor had only been asked a few questions on direct examination regarding conversations with Reagan and Joe Malfanti of Delmonico's restaurant, but Heney finally went so wide of the mark that the court was finally compelled to stop him. Campbell repeatedly warned Judge Dunne that he would invoke summary actions on the part of the higher court to stop the license given the prosecution, but Schmitz smilingly declined to hide behind technicalities, but went to the bat with prompt and sweeping denials of every incriminating charge.

Schmitz took the stand immediately after Scott, the former business agent of the Waiters' Union had testified that the French restaurants lost their licenses because of trouble with the Waiters' Union.

On direct examination Schmitz denied that he told Reagan to close up the French restaurants, denied that Reagan told him a sack of $28,000 had been raised by the French restaurants. He also denied the incriminating part of the conversation he had with Joe Malfanti.

Then Heney took him in hand and a dramatic scene followed. Heney immediately began asking questions entirely irrelevant to what Schmitz testified to directly. Dunne overruled all objections and Campbell advised Schmitz to defy the court. But the mayor stepped out in the open and forced the issue with the air of a man who had nothing to conceal and nothing to fear.

Apparently his answers were disconcerting to the prosecution, for Heney closed the cross examination as abruptly as he rested his case yesterday.

Next Smith, a member of the Waiters' Union, took the stand and corroborated Scott in relation to the job put up at Reagan's suggestion on the Tortoni restaurant.

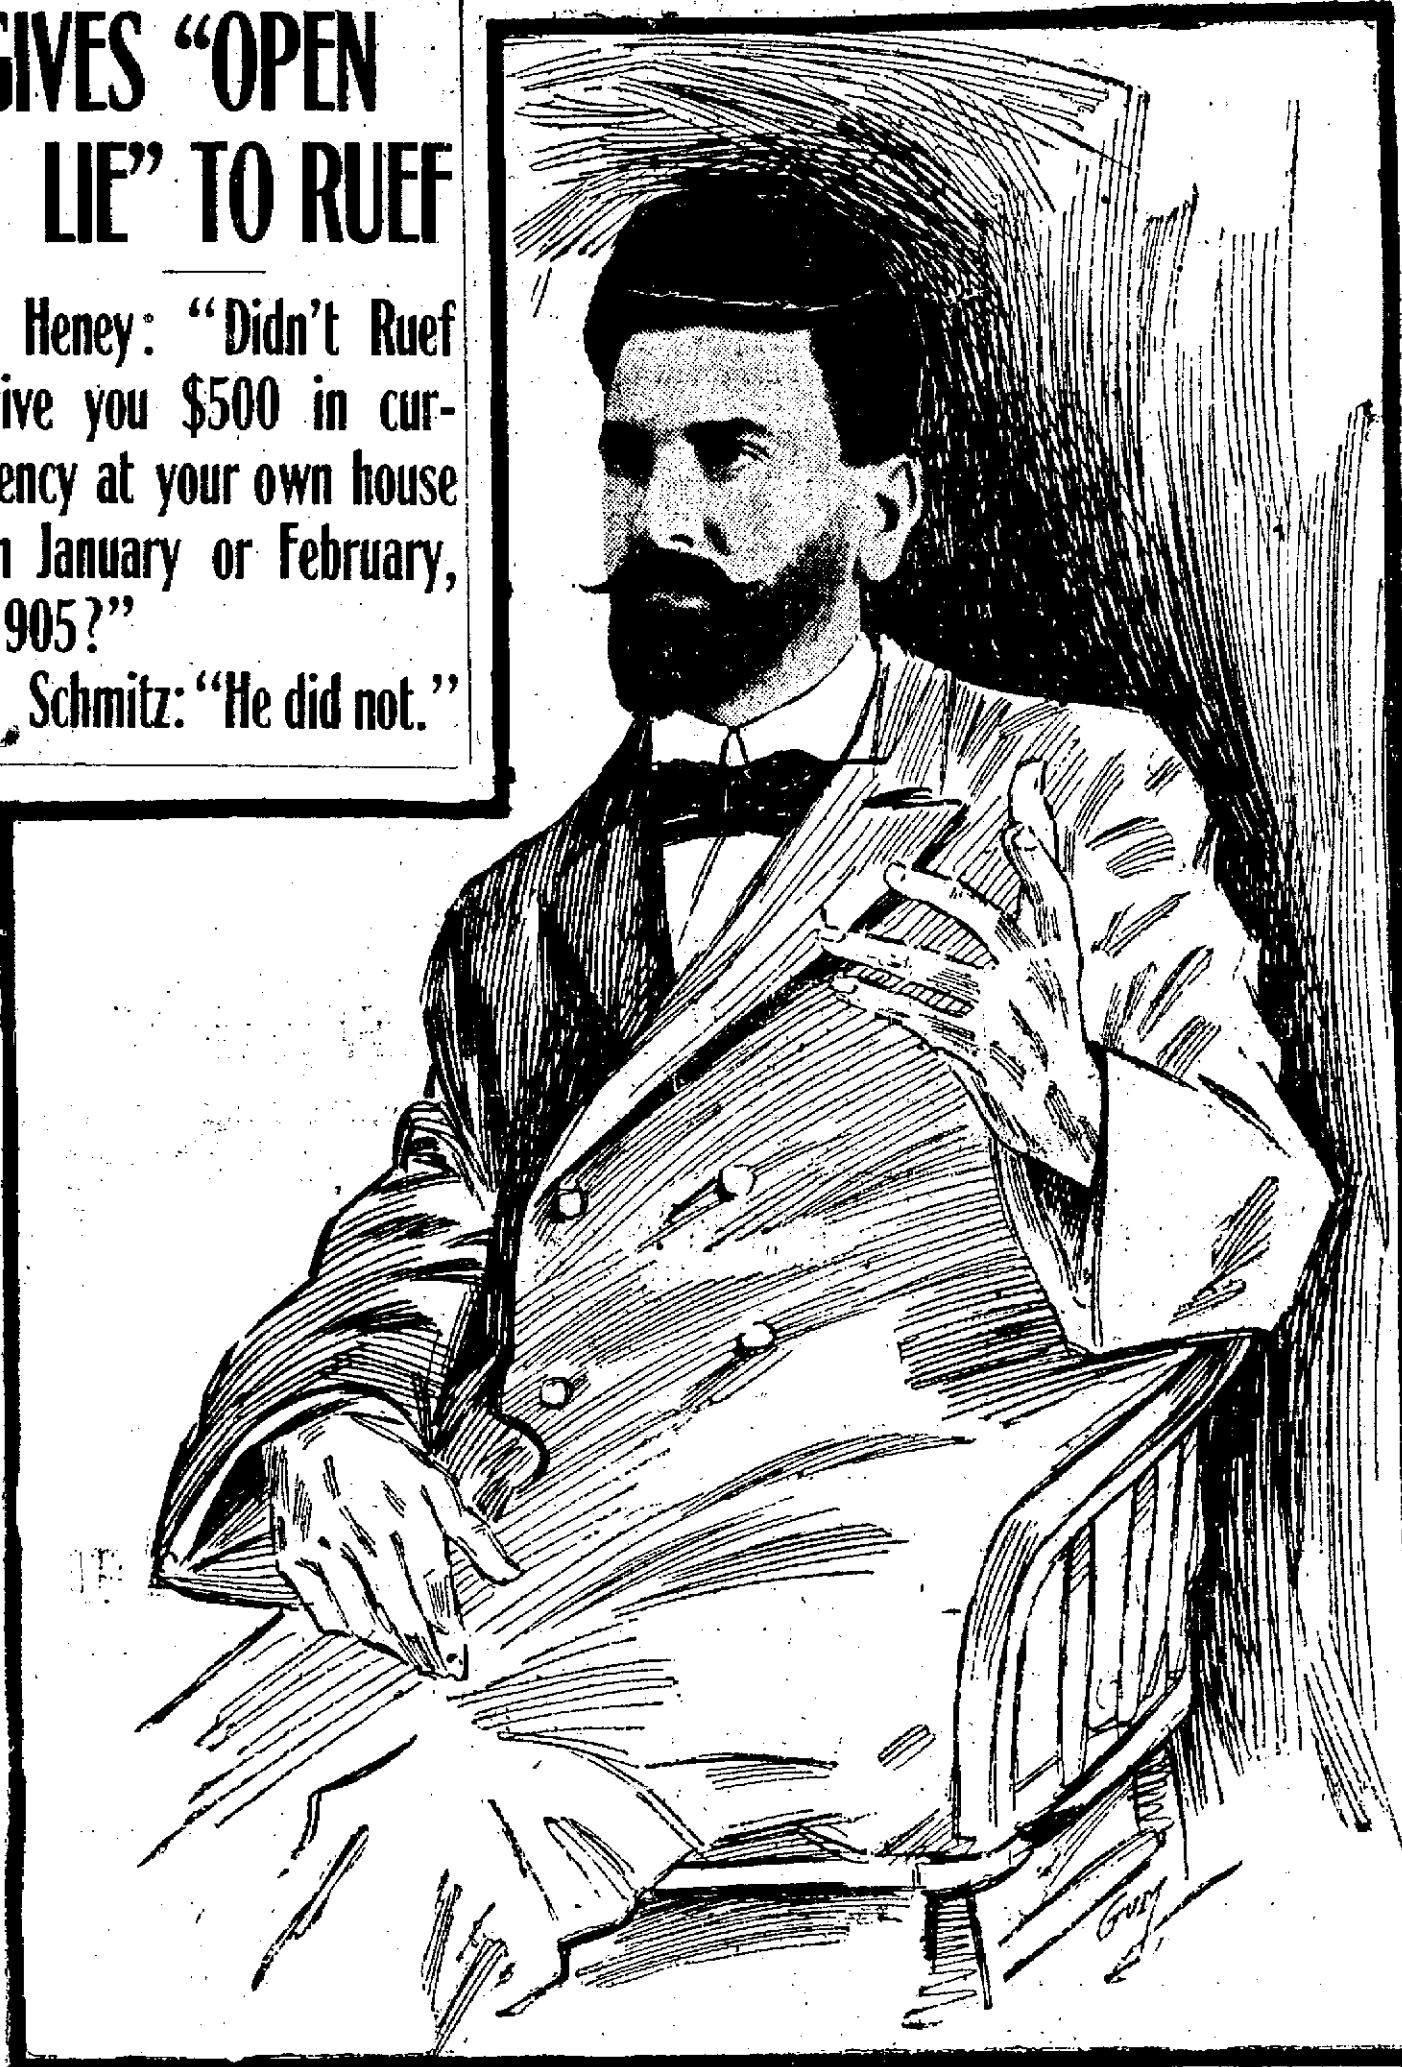

After Judge Dunne had thrown down the bars yesterday to the introduction of testimony relating to similar cases, it was rather staggering to the defense as well as the reporters and spectators for Heney to suddenly close his case at the cross examination of Mailhebeau, proprietor of Franks' rotisserie. Mailhebeau's testimony was a boomerang, however, and Heney was probably

TOWN ATTORNEY OF BERKELEY IS KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Harry H. Johnson Dead; Wife Is Injured

Harry H. Johnson, town attorney of Berkeley, was killed in an automobile accident at Sanbury, England, yesterday. When the accident occurred Johnson was riding in a motor car bound for Stratford-on-Avon, the birthplace of Shakespeare. He was accompanied by his wife, who was Miss Hilma Jones, of Berkeley, and by a Mr. and Mrs. Drake, of Philadelphia. As the party reached a sharp curve in the descent of a hill the car turned over and its occupants were hurled down a bank.

Johnson's skull was fractured and he died almost instantly. Drake suffered internal injuries which are expected to prove fatal. Mrs. Johnson and her companion, Mrs. Drake, escaped with slight bruises.

A confirmatory cablegram was received this morning from Mrs. Johnson in London, England, announcing the death of her husband. It reads: "Harry instantly killed in automobile accident. I am slightly injured. (Signed) HILMA." The cablegram is to Mrs. W. W. Jones, mother of Mrs. Johnson.

BERKELEY, June 11.—Harry H. Johnson, who was killed in the automobile accident yesterday near London, England, was born in Missouri twenty-nine years ago. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Johnson, and had lived here many years. His father is an outside salesman for the Deere Implement company, with headquarters in San Francisco. Young Johnson and his wife lived with her parents on Virginia street, Berkeley. There is one child left to the bereaved parents; Miss Ivy Johnson, who is at this time a student at the University of California. Johnson was graduated from the Berkeley high school in 1888, and after studying law in the office of Superior Judge W. H. Waste, entered Yale, graduating from the law school in 1892.

Returning to Berkeley, Johnson formed a partnership with Waste, who was at the time a partner in the law firm of Waste, Johnson & Co. (Continued on Page 3.)

MAYOR SCHMITZ MAKES STRONG DEFENSE AS WITNESS

Testimony of Accused Goes Far Toward Disproving Story of Prosecution.

(TRIBUNE CORRESPONDENCE.)
SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—The trial of Mayor Schmitz on the charge of extortion was resumed this morning. The first witness was M. C. Scott, who was business agent of the Waiters' union.

The purpose of the defense in putting Scott on the stand was to show that Reagan had ordered the closing of Tortoni's restaurant, not because it was an immoral place, but because he wanted to compel the place to unionize.

"Do you know a restaurant commonly known as Tortoni's?" asked Campbell.

"Yes."

"You remember the fact of the revocation of the Tortoni license?"

"Yes."

Scott stated that he was a waiter and that he was also a member of the Waiters' union.

Heney objected to the questions. The court asked Campbell what he proposed to show.

Campbell said that Reagan had closed up Tortoni's restaurant at the instigation of the waiters' union.

The objection was overruled.

WOMEN ARE SECURED.

"What did you tell Reagan?" asked Campbell.

"We told Reagan that Tortoni's restaurant was not unionized, and I said, 'What would you advise Mr. Reagan,' and he said, 'Get some people to show that Tortoni's accommodate women.'"

"I went away and later I said: 'What do you think if we have some women sent for to go to Tortoni's?' He said it was all right. We got a couple of men, one looked like a miner, and the other like a dude."

"They went to Tortoni's and after they had a meal they said to the waiter, 'Could we send for a couple of ladies?' The women were sent for. I told the men to get a check. We told Reagan of this and he said, 'Boys, we've got him.'"

Heney conducted the cross-examination.

"What is your job?" he asked.

"I am working for the Board of Public Works."

"You thought you said you were a waiter?"

"I was a waiter."

"I thought," said Heney, "you said you were a waiter?"

"Well, I am a waiter."

"When did you get the job?"

"Last August."

"Who got you the job?"

"I think it was Maestretti."

"The mayor was friendly to him, wasn't he?"

"I think he was."

Heney then asked if there were other restaurants that were not unionized. Scott said that Delmonico was not unionized.

"How about the Poodle Dog?" asked Heney.

"When they had a banquet they used to call in outside men."

"You told the mayor about this?"

"Yes."

"You told Ruef about it also?"

"Yes."

SCHMITZ GIVES ADVICE.

"What did you say to Schmitz when he refused to help you unionize the restaurants? Didn't he refuse to help you unionize them?"

"Mr. Schmitz gave me this advice, 'Be careful.'"

"What did he mean by being careful?"

"He told me not to go to extremes."

"Who made up the scheme about having these men go to the restaurants and bring in the women?"

"We decided upon it."

"You didn't need the assistance of Mr. Reagan then, did you?" asked Heney, ironically.

Campbell objected.

Heney then framed another question.

"How many times have you been to Schmitz' house?"

"About twice."

"Didn't Reagan ask you to go to his house?"

"Yes."

SCHMITZ DENIES THAT RUEF GAVE HIM MONEY

Declares That He Does Not Know That Ruef Got Money; Asserts He Had None of It

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—The attorneys for Mayor Eugene F. Schmitz opened the defense in his extortion trial today by calling to the stand M. P. Scott, who was business agent of the local Cooks' and Waiters' Union at the time the French restaurants were having their license troubles.

The entire examination of Scott was for the purpose, by the defense, of showing that Scott and Reagan put up a job to have the license of Tortoni revoked because that restaurant had refused to unionize. To this Scott testified directly and emphatically.

Under cross-examination by Attorney Heney, Scott denied that he had told Reagan (as Reagan himself testified) that the French restaurant keepers had raised a "sack" of $28,000 to buy protection of their licenses.

"Where are you employed?" demanded Heney.
"I am employed by the Board of Public Works."
"Oh! I thought you said you were a waiter."

Waiters Listened at Tables and Report Was Made to Mayor

"That's my regular occupation."
"Oh! then you're now waiting on Mr. Duffy, are you? Or is it Schmitz you are waiting on?"
"I object to this method of cross-examination," interposed Campbell.

"There is no reason why the witness should be subjected to indignities."

"The objection was overruled."
Scott said he secured his job with the public works last fall through the influence of the former President of that board, Frank Maestretti.

"Didn't you," asked Heney, "while you were business agent of the cooks' and waiters' union, instruct your waiters all over town to listen at tables in restaurants, and if they heard anything that might be of value to the Mayor to report to you? And didn't they do so, an didn't you report to the Mayor?"

Scott said this was true though he had reported to the Mayor not more than four times in all.

Witness Scott Is Told to Be Good by Judge Dunne

Asked another question pertaining to the confessed labor union plot to secure the revocation of Tortoni's license as a means to compel that restaurant to unionize, Scott replied flippantly:

"Oh Lord! you're going way back, before the fire aren't you? I will tell you about that," was the reply.

"Mr. Scott," said Judge Dunne testily, "don't try to be smart." Scott denied that he had told Ruef about the plot to have union waiters gather evidence of immorality at Tortoni's before that evidence was presented to the police board.

He said the union's complaint against Tortoni's was prepared for him by Secretary Cadavalader of the police board in the presence of Mayor Schmitz and several police officers. He denied that Ruef was present.

"When you told the Mayor of the refusal of Tortoni's to unionize, did he refuse to help you in your efforts to force the restaurants?" asked Heney.

"Be Careful, Scott, Be Careful," Said Schmitz

"I'll tell you about that," was the reply. "I told the Mayor about Tortoni's and the plan we had put up to get evidence by having two disguised waiters get the proprietor to send out for women of the town."

"The Mayor said 'be careful Scott, be careful what you do.' I had told him that all the French restaurants were bad, and I presume that in telling me to be careful he meant to warn me that there might be other means to exert against the other French restaurants not so extreme as those used against Tortoni's."

"You never would have dreamed of getting this spy evidence against Tortoni's if Reagan hadn't suggested it to you, would you?" asked Heney, ironically.

"No," said Scott. "I am not as bright as you are."

Scott said he had been in the Mayor's office only twice, to consult him in the interest of the Cooks' and Waiters' Union.

"Didn't Reagan," asked Heney, "ask you to go to Schmitz and ask him to request Reagan not to change his vote cast against the restaurants?"

"Never," cried Scott.

"That's all," said Mr. Heney.

"That's all," echoed Mr. Campbell.

Then Campbell and his assistants put their heads together and in a brief whispered conference decided to put the Mayor upon the stand. It was 10:55 when Mr. Campbell said:

"Take the stand, Mayor Schmitz."

A buzz of excitement ran through the packed Synagogue and there was a shifting of positions and a stretching of necks as the Mayor mounted to the witness chair at the altar edge.

The Mayor, under the guiding questions of his counsel, told in effect the following brief story:

Mayor Schmitz Tells His Story on the Stand

"Commissioner Reagan came to me and said that Commissioner Hutton was very much opposed to the French restaurants and wanted him (Reagan) to stand with him against them. I told Reagan that the French restaurants had been allowed to run for years before my administration and I saw nothing wrong with them. I told him, however, to investigate and find out about them before taking any action in the police commission. I never told him they were all bad places or that I wanted him to close them up."

"He did make an investigation and reported back to me. He said he investigated the New Poodle Dog at 8 o'clock in the evening and found there nothing wrong; that therefore he was not going to stand with Commissioner Hutton against it."

"It is not true that I told Mr. Reagan that he had called there the wrong time."

"In November of 1904 I had a conversation with Reagan about Tortoni's. Reagan came to see me at my house, and said that he and the other commissioners had voted to revoke the Tortoni license because its proprietor had sent out for immoral women at the request of patrons. I told Reagan that if any of the French restaurants were immoral places they should be closed up. He never upon any occasion told me that restaurant men in his opinion, had raised a 'sack' to be used for protection. I did take lunch at Malfanti's—Delmonico's—early in January of 1905. Malfanti came into the room and said to me:

"Mr. Mayor what's the matter with our licenses? They are being held up." I said: "Why I don't know but I'll see this afternoon and see what can be done."

"Take the witness," said Mr. Campbell.

Cross-Examination Was Stormy Scene of Trial

The cross-examination by Mr. Heney was a stormy one, as far as opposing counsel were concerned; but the Mayor's equanimity did not appear to be affected at all. At times a contempt sentence was threatened against the Mayor and his senior counsel, former Judge Campbell, the latter repeatedly advising the former not to answer the questions by Heney; the Mayor for his part declaring his entire willingness to answer, and at the same time affirming a disinclination to disregard the instructions of his attorneys.

"Did Ruef pay you any part of the $5000 fee he obtained from the French restaurant men?" was Heney's opening question.

Heney and Campbell in Heated Legal Argument

Campbell was on his feet instantly with an objection.

"This is not cross-examination," he protested. "It opens up the whole question when the defendant himself takes the stand and denies the truth of any definite fact that was brought out by the prosecution in the examination of witnesses who testify against him."

Heney retorted, "When the defendant takes the stand it is tantamount to a denial by him of guilt, and the fact opens up the cross-examination to a much wider field than would ordinarily be allowed."

"But," answered Campbell, "they have proved no guilt; and we have simply denied by the defendant's testimony that certain conversations took place."

"I will overrule the objection," said Judge Dunne.

"With all due respect to your honor," then said Mr. Campbell, "I shall advise the witness not to answer that question until it has been properly reframed."

"I am ready to answer that question, Mr. Campbell," spoke up the Mayor.

"Please read the question, Mr. Reporter," parried Campbell.

When it had been made ready by the stenographer, the mayor's senior counsel said:

"Now, Mr. Witness, I advise you and all of your counsel advise you to refuse to answer that question."

Schmitz Denies That Ruef Told Him of $5000 Gift

"Answer the question," said Judge Dunne to Mayor Schmitz.

"I'm ready to answer it, your honor, but on the advice of my counsel—"

"Oh, well," said Mr. Campbell, "let him answer this one. I withdraw my instructions not to answer, Mr. Witness."

The mayor said: "I do not know that Mr. Ruef got any $5000 fee from the French restaurant men or that he was to get any such fee."

"Hasn't Ruef told you so?" queried Heney.

Again the defense objected and protested against this line of questioning on the ground that it was not cross-examination and had not the slightest connection with any matter that had been touched in the redirect examination of the mayor. Again Mr. Campbell instructed the mayor not to answer but Mr. Schmitz, turning to Mr. Heney, said: "I have just answered that question."

"Didn't Ruef," persisted Heney, "give you $2500 in currency at your home in this city and tell you it was half of what he received on behalf of the French restaurant men?"

Witness Denies That Abe Ruef Gave Him Any Money

The objection to this by the defense was sustained. "He has already answered it," said Judge Dunne.

Heney asked: "Didn't Ruef give you one-half of $3000 in currency at your home in this city in January, 1906?"

When Judge Dunne had overruled Mr. Campbell's objection, the latter said:

"I now give to the witness the same instructions not to answer the questions."

Then Mr. Campbell's assistant, Mr. Barrett, took a hand. Jumping up he demanded with much spirit: "Does your honor mean to rule that there are to be no limits to this cross-examination?"

"Take your seat," was the court's reply.

"I assign as misconduct the instructions of your honor to the witness to disregard the advice of his counsel and answer to the question," Barrett flung back at the bench.

Judge Dunne said to Bailiff Moore: "Mr. Bailiff, find Mr. Barrett a seat—if he doesn't take it put him from the room."

Barrett sank slowly into his chair.

"I will reframe the question," said Mr. Heney. "Did not Ruef, at your house in this city give you $1500 in currency and say: 'This is one-half of the second payment I have received from the French restaurant men?'"

"He did not," replied Mayor Schmitz, warmly.

"Mr. Mayor, will you kindly wait till we get opportunity to object?" cautioned Mr. Metson of the defense.

The mayor acquiesced by a nod of the head.

"Didn't Ruef give you one-half of the $500 received by him from the old Poodle Dog, Jacks and Franks, at your house in this city in January 3, 1906?" Heney asked.

Schmitz Answers Questions in Spite of Objections

"Object to that question on the grounds already stated, and I advise the witness not to answer it," said Mr. Campbell.

"Mr. Campbell," said the Mayor, leaning forward in the witness chair, "I afraid the proprietors of Jacks and the old Poodle Dog would kick the prosecution in the face the same way. Mailhebeueau testified that his license was never taken away and that nobody ever threatened to take it away, but that he got frightened because the old Poodle Dog had been without a license for a month. He refused to accede to Jean Loupy's request that he contribute to the $5000 fund, contributed by the five big French restaurants, but went to Ruef personally because he was a power politically and a lawyer.

Ruef agreed to represent the three small restaurants for $500, saying: "I will go before the Police Commissioners and do the best I can for you boys, but I cannot guarantee you anything."

Judge Dunne refused Campbell's request for an adjournment till today but ordered a recess of an hour to give the defense time to prepare to put in their case. Campbell's opening was a model of brevity and directness. In as few words as possible he stated that he would show that Schmitz had no connections with any of the acts charged in the indictment. Not a syllable was wasted. There was not a hint of flatdoodle or insinuation.

The court room was crowded this morning when B. T. Scott, formerly business agent of the Waiters' Union, took the stand. Scott is a dark, round faced man with a big voice and a quick manner. He said that the scheme to entrap the proprietor of Tortoni's was suggested by Police Commissioner Reagan. Scott complained to Reagan that the Tortoni was a non-union establishment, and Reagan suggested getting men to go there and send out for lewd women as a pretext for taking away the license. Reagan's advice was followed and Tortoni's lost its license.

Scott also complained to Reagan that the new Poodle Dog, Marchand's, Delmonico's and the Bay State were "unfair" houses and Reagan and Hutton refused to renew their licenses.

Scott did not discuss the matter with Ruef, nor did he tell the mayor in advance about the job put up on Tortoni's at Reagan's request.

He denied ever telling Reagan that a sack of $28,000 had been raised by the French restaurants or ever being questioned about it by the mayor. When he told the mayor about the trick played on Tortoni's, Schmitz said, "Be careful, Scott. Go slow." He understood that the mayor meant that there were other ways of getting the French caterers to unionize their places without taking away their licenses.

On every essential point Scott flatly contradicted Reagan.

Heney went at Scott with a snarl. Every question was an affront. His tone and manner were laden with insult and insinuation. But Scott remained cool and unshaken. He elicited the fact that he was in the employ of the Board of Public Works, but robbed this of its significance by bringing out that Maestretti, the deposed president of the works board, had given him his job. Scott said he had not talked with the mayor more than four times since the fire. While he was business agent of the Waiters' Union he frequently visited Schmitz to discuss matters relating to his union. Scott then gave way to Schmitz.

am perfectly willing to answer these questions, but I don't like to go against the advice of counsel."

Judge Dunne swung around in his chair until he faced the Mayor.

"Answer the question," he ordered sharply.

"He did not," replied Schmitz, pronouncing the words slowly, distinctly and with emphasis.

"Didn't you," asked Heney, "read in the evening Bulletin of January 7, 1905, before you had talked with Commissioner Reagan about a sack, that a sack had been raised by the restaurant men and was to be paid by them to Ruef?"

The objection to this question was sustained.

"At the time you talked with Malfanti, that day at lunch at Delmonico's, didn't you know that a protection fund had been raised by him and the other French restaurateurs?"

"I object to that question," interposed Campbell, "and I instruct the witness not to—"

"You have no right to advise the witness to answer or not to answer questions," said Judge Dunne to Mr. Campbell.

"If any errors are committed in this court in the conduct of this case they are not final errors. There are two other courts to whom you can apply for review. But you may not engender friction here by advising a witness contrary to the rulings of the court."

Schmitz Denies That Ruef Presented Him With Money

"There will be no friction your honor," replied Mr. Campbell, "save as it may arise in the carrying out by me of my duty to my client as I perceive it, as the result of thirty years' experience. I don't run counter to your honor, but if these questions continue to be asked and to be by the court upheld I shall instruct the witness to answer or refuse to answer, as my duty to him and to my judgment shall dictate."

"Answer the questions," demanded the court.

"On advice of counsel, I—" began the Mayor, then paused at a motion from Mr. Campbell.

"Let him answer that," whispered Barrett to Campbell.

Said Mr. Campbell: "Mr. Reporter, please read that question again."

When this question had been acceded to, Mr. Campbell said, addressing the Mayor: "I do not advise you not to answer that question."

"I had not heard so," was the Mayor's reply.

"Didn't you receive $500 from Ruef in currency in January or February, 1905, at your house in this city?" pursued Heney.

Objection by the defense was sustained.

"He has answered that question," Judge Dunne reminded the Assistant District Attorney.

"Didn't Ruef give you, pay you, hand you $500 in currency at your house in January or February, 1905?"

Mr. Campbell made the usual objection and Judge Dunne overruled it.

"Answer the question," he said.

"He did not," replied the Mayor promptly and vigorously.

"Didn't Ruef at your house in this city, in January, 1905, hand you $500 in currency and state in substance that it was part of the money he had received from the French restaurants?"

Objection by the defense was sustained.

Heney Shows His Surprise at Replies of Mayor Schmitz

"I ask you to look at this letter," said Mr. Heney, handing to the mayor a copy of Ridgeway's weekly of January 10, 1905, and tell me if it is a copy of a letter which you delivered to Abraham Ruef on or about November 7, 1901?"

Objection by the defense on the ground that this was not cross-examination, that it was not in connection with the examination in chief; that it was without foundation, and, completed Mr. Campbell, "I must say that I think the counsel knows it."

Mr. Heney explained that the question was for the purpose of destroying the effect of the mayor's contradictions of certain matters related by Commissioner Reagan and to show the close friendly relations which existed between the mayor and Ruef as far back as 1901.

"If that is so, why didn't you seek to introduce it as direct evidence?" demanded Campbell.

Judge Dunne sustained the objection and Heney took back the newspaper.

He asked: "Didn't you have a conversation with Reagan in your office at some time prior to November, 1904, and in substance didn't you say to him: 'Now, Tom, those fellows—meaning Fishback and Bacon—held a $500 bet that Hutton put up that I wouldn't be elected. D—them they've got a dive on Market street and I'm going to put them out of business?"

The objection to this question was sustained, over the protest of Mr. Heney. As the latter sank into his seat an exclamation of surprise and chagrin escaped him. Then he said: "That's all, take the witness."

"That's all," announced Mr. Campbell cheerfully and without being subjected to a word of a-direct examination. Mayor Schmitz left the witness stand in the altar and resumed his seat between his attorneys at the counsel table.

Charles A. Smith, by trade a cook but now employed in the freight department of the Santa Fe, took the stand. His testimony was corroborative of that given by Scott to the effect that the Cooks' and Waiters' union was responsible for the gathering and presentation of evidence which resulted in the withdrawing of Tortoni's liquor license on the ground that the place was conducted immorally.

Smith testified that he and Scott and Police Commissioner Reagan planned this plot in Reagan's office and that their motive was to compel Tortoni to employ only union cooks and waiters.

Smith declared that Commissioner Reagan said on one occasion, "There's the Bay State, too. We'll fix them if they don't unionize, too. Their license is about up."

Smith was under cross-examination by Mr. Heney when adjournment was taken for the noon recess.

SECURE EIGHT JURORS FOR MURDER TRIAL

A special venire of twenty talsmen from which four jurors are wanted for the trial of William Santos, charged with murder, was issued this morning by Judge Melvin. The eight jurors accepted to try Santos for the murder of Angelo Genignani are: Carl Kreling, J. S. Young, George Atkinson, F. C. Jarvis, Henry Klehn, Enoch Hughes, Nelson Provost and R. C. Cleveland.

Santos was formerly the proprietor of the United States Hotel at Centerville and last December when he and Angelo Genignani were in a dispute over a card game, the latter was beaten over the head with a bottle and died three months later from a fractured skull.

WOMAN SENTENCED TO ONE YEAR IN PRISON

Bessie Bowman, the self-confessed robber, was sentenced by Judge Melvin this morning to one year's imprisonment at the State Prison at San Quentin for grand larceny. She confessed in court yesterday to stealing $28, a gold watch and ring from Chas. Spelly on April 29 last.

DEATH OF MRS. R. DUNCAN

Mrs. Mary Duncan died last night at her home, 805 Adeline street. Mrs. Duncan was 56 years of age and a native of Scotland. Bruce, Mrs. George Yager and John and Alex Leitch.

NOPPE TRIAL SET

John Noppe, the alleged murderer of Charles League, had his trial set this morning for June 19th. His attorney, John J. Allen, did not insist this morning on the reduction of the bail from $5,000 to $2,000 which was asked for yesterday and continued until today to decide upon.

SCHMITZ ON THE STAND

Schmitz and ask him not to ask him to vote for the restaurants?"

"Never."

"As soon as you got other restaurants unlicensed you told Reagan to pull off, didn't you?"

"Yes."

SCHMITZ TAKES STAND.

At 10:55 Mayor Schmitz took the stand.

"I know Reagan," he testified, "have known him since 1901. I had a conversation in 1904 with Reagan about the French restaurants. Reagan said Hutton wanted him to stand with him against the French restaurants."

"I told him the French restaurants had run for forty years before my administration, and that before he acted he should investigate for himself. He reported to me that he had investigated the Poodle Dog and found nothing wrong."

QUESTIONED CAMPBELL.

"Did you say that he had not visited them at the right time?"

"I did not."

"When he told you that he had closed up Tortoni, what did you say?"

"I said that he had done right and that he would be justified in holding up any license under the same circumstances. At that time Reagan was informed that women had been sent for for a couple of men at the place."

"Did Ruef pay you any of the $5000 he had received for the French restaurants?" asked Henny in cross-examination.

Campbell objected.

Henny argued in favor of the question. He read from a report in the case of Gallagher and Beggs, who, years ago, robbed the Oakland Street Railway Company.

Campbell said the rule was well established that the witness could be cross-examined about anything that he had been examined on in chief. He had asked Schmitz, he said, about his talk with Reagan and the witness could not be asked about his relations with a third party. Campbell further contended that it was a travesty upon justice for the prosecution to attempt to show by the witness what they had not been able to prove by their own witnesses. He took the Gallagher and Beggs case referred to by Henny and showed by a decision of the Supreme Court that a subject which had not been brought out by the examination in chief of the defendant, could not be brought out in cross-examination.

HAD AIDED RUEF.

Henny claimed that Beggs had taken the money, but Gallagher had been put on the stand and testified that he had not advised Ruef. Henny asserted, Schmitz had aided Ruef in the holding up of the French restaurants. He said that with all deference to the ruling of the court, I would advise the witness that he need not answer the question," said Campbell.

Henny propounded the question again and Campbell, arising, said:

"Mr. Witness, I advise you, as your counsel, that I do not wish to disregard the advice of my counsel."

The court again admonished Schmitz to answer the question, and Schmitz replied as follows:

READY TO ANSWER.

"I am ready to answer the question," said Schmitz, "but I do not wish to disregard the advice of my counsel."

The court again admonished Schmitz to answer the question, and Schmitz replied as follows:

"I did not know that Ruef got $5,000, but if he did, I am going to get $5000 in the case of the French restaurants?"

Campbell objected but the objection was overruled.

The court ordered Schmitz to answer the question.

ADVISES NOT TO ANSWER.

"I again instruct you, as your counsel, that you are not required to answer the question," said Campbell.

"He did not," finally answered Schmitz.

"Didn't Ruef?" persisted Henny, "pay you half of the $5000 paid to him by"

BERKELEY CITY ATTORNEY IS KILLED IN ENGLAND

HARRY H. JOHNSON, TOWN ATTORNEY OF BERKELEY, WHO WAS KILLED IN AN AUTO ACCIDENT IN EUROPE, AND HIS WIFE, WHO WAS SLIGHTLY INJURED.

H. H. Johnson Loses His Life in Auto Accident and Wife Is Seriously Injured.

that time assemblyman from this district, and on the latter's elevation to the superior bench by Governor Pardee. Johnson was elected town attorney of Berkeley. He was re-elected last April. July 21, 1906, Johnson and Miss Hilma Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Jones, were married. Jones is a commission merchant in San Francisco.

Johnson was a member of Durant Lodge No. 285, F. and A. M.; Berkeley Chapter and Berkeley Commandery, Knights Templar. He left here May 21 with his wife for a three months' tour of Europe. His sudden death comes as a shock to his many friends, and his near relatives are completely prostrated over the news.

As soon as the report of his death was received here and confirmed, the flag over the town hall was lowered to half-mast and will remain so until after the funeral, which will be held here as soon as the body can be brought to Berkeley.

UNUSUAL RAINFALL VISITS THIS CITY AND VICINITY

Nearly Three-Fourths of an Inch Drops From Clouds Exceeding All the Previous June Showers.

The rainfall of the last twenty-four hours, which came as quite a surprise to the residents of this city and its neighborhood, amounted to 0.75 of an inch, which is greatly in excess of any June shower in previous years.

The total amount of rainfall for the season up to 1 o'clock today amounted to 2.25 inches. Last year up to the corresponding date, the total rainfall was 2.25 inches. Last year in the month of

RECEIVED NO MONEY.

This was objected to and Henny reframed the question, asking if Schmitz did not get half of the $500 which had been paid for the protection of the smaller French restaurants.

"I did not," was Schmitz's answer. "Did you not?" asked Henny, "read in the Bulletin of January, 1906, an article which told the same thing as Reagan had told you, that a sack had been found for the purpose of protecting the French restaurants, and would be paid to Ruef?"

"There was a long objection and argument, and finally the witness was ordered to answer the question."

"I had not read the article," was the answer.

"At the time you had the talk with Malfranti, did you not know that a fund had been raised to protect the French restaurant licenses?"

"This brought out another series of objections from the defense, and Campbell said he would be obliged to advise the witness not to answer the question."

"I hope you will not do it any more," said Judge Dunne. "If this court commits error there are two other courts to review it. I am going to ask you, Mr. Campbell, not to instruct the witness any more."

"There has been nothing but pleasure in my relations with the court," said Campbell, "but as an attorney of thirty years' standing I must perform the duties which devolve upon me in relation to my client, your honor."

"Answer the question," said Henny. "On the advice of my counsel," said Schmitz, "I must refuse to answer the question."

"Did you," repeated Henny, "receive $2500 from Ruef in January or February in your home?"

"This was objected to by Campbell on the ground that it had been asked before and the objection was sustained."

"Did Ruef pay you $2,500 in currency and did he say that it was part of the French restaurant fund?"

Campbell objected, but Schmitz answered.

"He did not."

"EXAMINATION ENDS.

"Did you not," continued Henny, "have the following conversation with Reagan in your office prior to November, 1904: 'Now, Tom, those fellows are fixed. They had $500 up against me that I would not be elected. They have a dive on Market street and I am going after them.'"

Objection to this question was sustained.

That ended the cross-examination. Charles A. Smith, another waiter, was the next witness. He said that Tortoni's restaurant was not employing union cooks or waiters, and Scott and he had made up their minds to put the place out of business, and in pursuance of this purpose they had had recourse to Commissioner Reagan."

"What did Reagan say?" asked Campbell.

"He said it would be a good idea if we would put a job up on them."

"Well, what else was said?"

"He also said it would be a good idea if we could send a couple of men and a couple of women with them to Tortoni's to get evidence against the place."

"Anything else?"

"I don't recall anything more at that particular time."

"Well, what happened later?"

"I went into Tortoni's one morning for the purpose of investigating. I presented my card and asked if they had union cooks and waiters there. The manager told me I can run my own business," he told me to get out of there. I left and went to Reagan."

"What did you go to Reagan for?"

"I went to confer with him to have him suggest a plan to enable us to get even."

"What did you tell Reagan?"

"We told him that we had sent two men to Tortoni's. We told them first to go into the dining-room on the first floor and have a meal, and then ask for a room on the second floor where they could transact business without being disturbed. We then told them to spend some money on good wine and tip the waiter, and finally asked them if they could not be separated and each to have a room for himself. We also told them to ask if the waiters would not have the management send out and get a couple of women to come to the rooms. We told them to get a receipt for what they paid out. We also told them to make it appear that they had longed their receipts and to insist upon getting the duplicate, because we did not know but that the checks would be kept by the restaurant men."

"The next day I went to the headquarters of the Cooks and Waiters' Union and met Scott. He told me that the trick had worked all right."

Smith was under cross-examination at the time the news account was dictated.

Conservation of the Public Domain.

In an address delivered before the National Editorial Association yesterday, President Roosevelt discussed in extenso the past policy of the government in regard to the public domain and the abuses which have grown out of it. The purpose of the President was plain, namely, to introduce a policy through Congressional legislation, for the purpose of conserving what remains of the public domain so that actual settlers shall get the benefit of it, which was the fundamental design in the formulation of the laws regulating the disposition of the public lands, and the nation at large thus derive the greatest advantage which it could derive from an increased industrial population.

Roosevelt showed conclusively that the land laws have been so imperfect and their administration so lax that the greater part of it has been frittered away, and, what is worse, has passed into hands whereby a few only have reaped the benefit through its alienation, while the great multitude, whom it was intended should be the beneficiaries, have lost the privileges which they should have enjoyed and which their issue should have inherited, so as to build up a nation of small landowners. Instead of that, the public domain has been so administered that great land monopolies have been created out of it and the clear intent of the public land laws have been defeated. Instead of passing into the hands of the home-maker, the greater portion of the public domain has passed into the possession of big corporations and trusts, which have developed as concerns inimical to the public interests at large. The burden of the President's address was that we have reached a point in the history of the disposition of the public domain where a halt must be called and more legislation enacted by Congress to preserve it from further alienation and prevent a continuance of the crimes which have been committed under the color of the land laws which have been in effect up to date.

The public domain is today practically reduced to the forage ranges, the unpre-empted forests and the unoccupied arid waste of the country. The absorption of the latter by unlawful combinations has been prevented by the laws providing for their reclamation by national irrigation works. The unpre-empted forests have, in a large measure, been conserved by the forest reserve laws and the policy under which they are being administered. But the forage ranges are still open to the grossest abuses. It is an unpleasant commentary on the past governmental policy that the President's charge against it should lie, to the effect, that "the public range has lost nearly one-half its value through it," and that, "although fencing is against the law, as the law now stands, it is well nigh impossible to do anything and keep up the value of the range." It was undoubtedly intended by the framers of our land laws that the pastures should be reserved as common property for common use, as the unarable pastures, known as "commons" in Great Britain are reserved, with limitations on the number of the head of cattle which any particular tenant or freeholder shall graze on it. But the pasture ranges of the United States have fallen into the hands of corporations, who lawlessly contend among themselves for their possession, and, as a result, their settlement for any purpose has been stopped. The problem now is to get them back under Federal control.

Another point of greatest interest to which the President called attention is the control of the water and fuel sources of the country. These are proving to be among the nation's most valuable natural resources which still remain. But they are being raided with all the grasping intensity which has marked the absorption of the agricultural, forest and pasture lands in the public domain. The lakes and water courses and the dam sites in the public domain have become assets of the greatest value through the progress of the development of electric energy and the expansion of the plans of irrigating the arid lands, and the hitherto waste lands are proving to be invaluable sources of fuel supply in the form of mineral oil and coal which it behooves the government to conserve in the interest of the present generation and posterity. The President's address will appeal to every thoughtful citizen who has the welfare of the country at heart and should influence Congress to adopt measures which will be effective to conserve the nation's interests in what remains of the public domain not yet alienated.

Baron Kuroki's Common Sense View

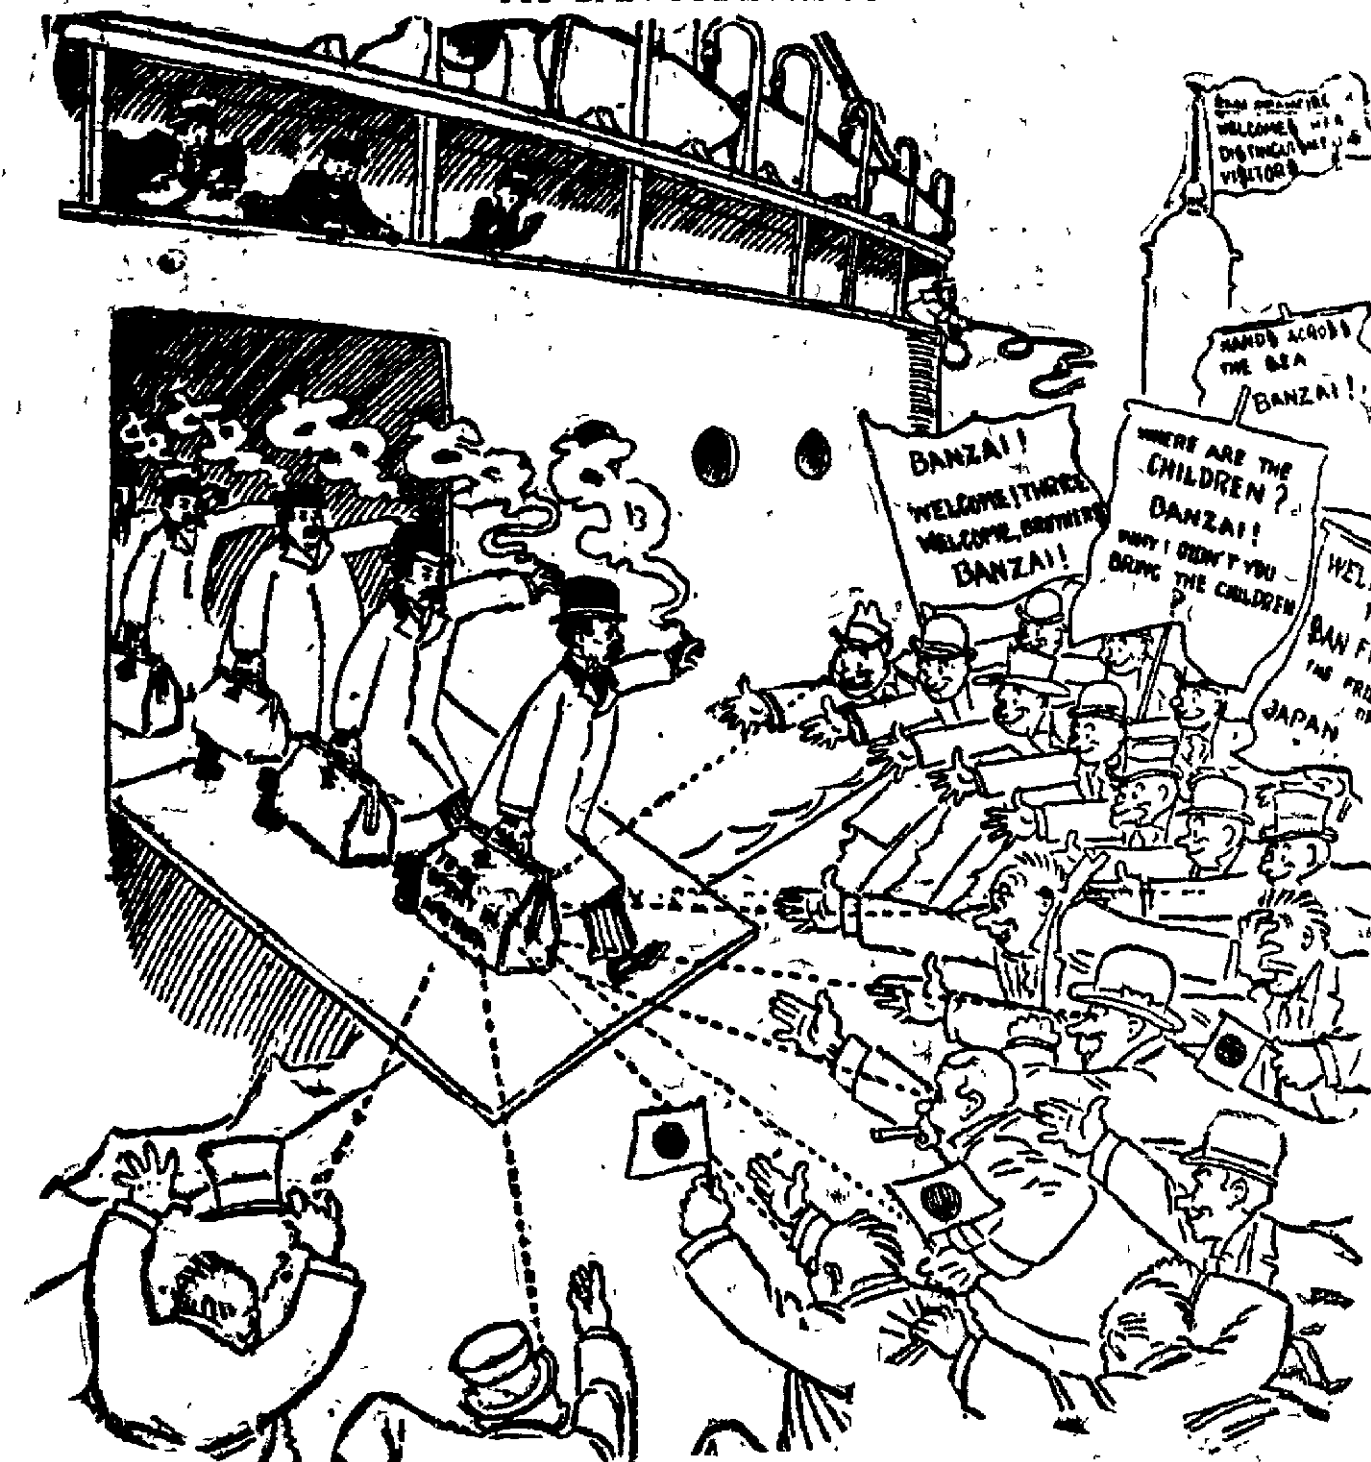

Baron Kuroki's calm, sensible and dignified view of the relations between the Tokio and Washington governments is in marked contrast with the hysterical and rabid comments of some Eastern newspapers which are making a mountain out of a mole-hill and doing their utmost apparently to breed mischief. These newspapers have been talking irrationally about the possibility of war between the two countries when there is positively no cause for war in sight on the international horizon.

In an interview at Seattle on his return homeward-bound from the Jamestown exposition, this distinguished Japanese general sensibly declared that "the friendship that has existed for twenty years cannot be broken by such incidents as those that have occurred in San Francisco. There will be no war between Japan and America in my lifetime or in your lifetime. There may be momentary flurries and some excitement engendered, but nothing serious will come of it. The sentiment of friendship between the two countries is too deep-seated among the people to allow a small matter to provoke an open rupture."

Baron Kuroki takes the true and common sense view of the San Francisco incidents over which so much unnecessary fuss is being made. He correctly classes them as mere "momentary flurries" and "small matters" of no vital international concern and strictly local in character. He has had an opportunity during his travels to and from Jamestown to feel the pulse of the nation at large and has learned that it beats a friendly throb toward his country. He puts the right estimate on both the school issue and the raid on the Japanese restaurants in San Francisco, for he evidently appreciates that the former was merely a local political move for local political effect and that the latter was not due to any social antagonism or hatred, but merely one of the outgrowths of San Francisco's union labor troubles.

San Bernardino seems to have a strange climate which has produced a strange class of citizens, according to the Index, which says: "We notice a paragraph going the rounds asserting that the climate of Pasadena is the West Indian and St. Michael's in the Azores, which is a man's lazier than in any other place on earth. It isn't true. There are over in this town who could probably be made any lazier than they are."

IT WOULD PROMOTE INTERNATIONAL FRIENDSHIP IF THEY LANDED AT SAN FRANCISCO

A PARTY OF JAPS IS COMING WITH TEN MILLION DOLLARS TO SPEND IN THE UNITED STATES.

Crisis in France.

The situation in France, which has been created by the distress existing in the wine-growing districts, is assuming a serious aspect. It was begun as a political move to force the government to carry out measures of relief through the granting of financial aid and the immediate passage of such legislation by the Chamber of Deputies as will make the adulteration of wine and the manufacture of imitation wines from chemical compounds unlawful. These frauds, which the law and the government have countenanced, has practically destroyed the business of wine-growing.

The government has shown so much hesitation in dealing with the question that the distressed wine-growers of southern France are practically in open revolt. Over half a million of them made a public demonstration at Montpellier and swore with uplifted hands to force departmental, city, town and commercial officials to resign, and agreeing to refuse to pay taxes until parliamentary relief is furnished. Several mayors have already followed the example of the mayor of Narbonne, who resigned with the spectacular play of hauling down the national flag from the city hall. If all the officials from the Spanish frontier to the Rhine resign, as they are expected to do, civil government will voluntarily cease. That is the danger, for it will open the way for disorder which an unscrupulous and brainy adventurer might very readily turn into a revolution. Already a leader, who is said to be showing marvelous influence and organizing power, has come to the front in the person of a man who was only a couple of months ago a modest and obscure wine-grower. The tranquility of the country apparently depends much upon how wisely this man exercises his power over the people in the present crisis.

California, Nevada and Oregon are specially interested in what President Roosevelt had to say in his address to the National Editorial Association of Jamestown regarding the absorption of the pasture ranges and the fencing of public lands, for they have been afflicted to the limit in this respect by the cattle barons. The late David Jacks enclosed under fence something like 18,000 acres of public pasture in Monterey county and the late Jesse D. Carr fenced in a still larger area in southern Oregon and in the northern counties of this State, and it took years of costly litigation to remove both. In the case of Carr's fences, military forces had to be employed. In Nevada, the Promontory Cattle Company seized over 300,000 acres of the public grazing lands by the simple process of preempting the quarter sections embracing the water holes, and the area in the same State acquired by Lux & Miller in the same way is probably even larger. So far as known neither has been dispossessed, although it has been decided by the courts that "water holes" in the arid region are possessions in common to the surrounding territory.

Dandelion

removes the cause of kidney trouble

Guaranteed under the Pure Food and Drugs Act, June 30, 1906. Serial number 3317. A healthy kidney is a filter. The blood goes in one end of the kidney full of poisonous and waste material. It comes out from the other end perfectly pure. Like all filters the kidneys get out of order. The trouble is only slight at first, but rapidly becomes dangerous if neglected, because the kidneys become choked with refuse, and the result is a leaking filter, full of holes and ulcers, with the natural consequence that the whole system becomes poisoned and the blood contaminated with uric acid. Dr. Edwards' Compound Dandelion Tablets act directly upon the kidneys and remove the cause of the trouble. In other words, they repair the leaking filter and make it clean and healthy. This picture is the prize winner of Arm Contest

These are photographs of Miss Veva Whalen, who, according to the two noted artists, Xavier Martinez and G. Cadenasso, who judged contest, is the winner of THE TRIBUNE Arm Contest, having for its prize a dozen pairs of silk stockings. These photographs were taken Shaw & Shaw, the photographers.

WINNERS IN THE TRIBUNE ARM CONTEST ARE ANNOUNCED

Veva Whalen Given First Prize, Silk Stockings; Alice Rufener Gets the Gloves.

Announcement is made today of the winners in THE TRIBUNE arm contest. After a careful examination of scores of photographs submitted, the judges have decided that Miss Veva Whalen of Oakland is entitled to first prize, a dozen pairs of silk stockings, and that Miss Alice Rufener, also of Oakland, is the winner of the gloves offered for the most graceful and most artistic pose.

The judges are Xavier Martinez, ranked by Paris critics fifth to Whistler, and G. Cadenasso, instructor of art at Mills College. These judges had score upon score of photographs to examine and sort out. There are many girls with beautiful arms in Alameda county, according to photographic evidence, and the task of the judges was a most trying one, although pleasurable.

After examining, re-examining and discarding, the judges finally decided that Miss Veva Whalen has the most shapely arm in Alameda county and to her goes the silk stockings. The photographs of Miss Whalen, as shown on this page, were taken by Shaw & Shaw, the well-known Broadway photographers.

Miss Whalen is eighteen years old and lives with her parents at 517 Sixteenth street. She is a stenographer in the employ of a local express company. Her parents are pleased with her victory.

Many and varied were the poses submitted, but the judges finally decided that the most graceful and artistic was that of Miss Alice Rufener of 869 Washington street, daughter of Louis Rufener, the hotel man, and to her goes the gloves. The photograph is by Belle Oudry.

The judges, Xavier Martinez and G. Cadenasso, two of the most noted artists anywhere, compliment the young ladies entered in the contest upon their bright arms and poses.

LARGEST GIRL BABY ON RECORD REACHES CHICAGO

President Is Notified of Arrival of Fair Eighteen - Pounder, Who Claims Heavyweight Championship.

CHICAGO, June 11.—The largest baby ever born in Chicago, a girl weighing eighteen pounds, is today receiving the superstitious adorations from thousands of Polish residents of the city, who consider the child and its parents as specially favored by Providence. President Roosevelt has been notified and executive recognition of the event is expected. Feasts have been held in all Polish centers of the city, especially in South Chicago, where the parents reside.

The parents, Kasper and Katie Gdzinska, have eight other children, the eldest being Mary, 13 years old. The father and mother of the largest girl baby are of normal size and all other children were normal at birth. The new arrival was taken to the Church of the Immaculate Conception in South Chicago, and with nearly every resident of the Polish district present, was christened Benigna Anna Gdzinska. Among the physicians of the city there is no record of a baby of such phenomenal weight.

WOMAN'S BONDAGE IS DUE TO FINE CLOTHES

Suffragist Association Declares That Time and Energy Are Wasted in Dressing One's Self.

CLEVELAND, June 11.—The members of the Cleveland branch of the National Woman's Suffragist Association declared woman's bondage was due to fine clothes. Mrs. W. G. Rose, widow of the former Mayor Rose, voiced the sentiments of the other members when she said:

"We condemn the conventionalism of American women. Clothes are woman's bondage. They have made her conventional from the beginning."

"As a girl I couldn't drive a wagon, climb trees and do the things my brother did because I would tear my clothes. A woman spends so much time and energy in dressing that she doesn't have either for anything else. Neither would a man if he had to fix up as we do."

"Why, the only reason man buys so many fine clothes for women is because he knows they will keep her down. But they won't. The working women and independent women will solve the question here, for the working men are all with us. They know that the person who works should get pay."

May Propose.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Proposing by women is bound to come in the course of time, according to Mrs. Harriet J. Wood, a lawyer. When the happy time does arrive man's matrimonial chances will depend on his good looks and bank account.

"God created man and woman equal at the beginning of the long journey," she said. "The mother age came first. During that time the mother sufficed. No one knew or cared who his father might be. Aryan and Semitic history shows this. We have another example in the Dyack tribe, where the women take partners until they find one who suits them."

"As soon as the man assumed control, woman's position in the church, home and government became a subject of dispute. But the patriarch age is passing. When man and woman have assumed their proper relations, then man will feel no surprise and woman no shame in avowing her love."

"Since the object to be attained is the perfection of the human race, mothers should choose the fathers of their children."

WOMAN LAWYER SUES WOMEN DOCTOR; WINS

ST. LOUIS, June 11.—A woman lawyer conducted a case against a woman physician in Justice Spaulding's court today in a suit to compel payment for a black broadcloth gown and other clothing made by a tailoring firm.

The defendant was Dr. Mary J. Helm, 5119 Delmar boulevard, and the attorney for the plaintiff, Miss Hattie Greenberg. Dr. Helm was sued for $70 and costs and a verdict for the plaintiff was given.

MRS. VANDERBILT WILL NOT ACCUSE THIEVING WAITER

Wife of Millionaire Leaves New York City Rather Than Appear Against Man Who Took Vanity Box.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Rather than appear in the Jefferson Market Police Court to prosecute a waiter in whose possession her $15,000 vanity box was discovered, Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt Jr. left town today and a detective who had been sent to serve her with summons was unable to find her. The prisoner is held by Magistrate Whitman in heavy hall until Wednesday and a summons issued for the manager of Sperry's, where the box was lost, to appear and make a complaint against the waiter.

WOMAN BURIED ON TOP OF FRIEND, AS AGREED

WORCESTER, Mass., June 11.—Carrying out a compact made three years ago, the body of Mrs. Julia A. Fuller was sent from this city and buried in West Station, in the same grave with and superimposed on the casket of Mrs. George L. Remington, who died April 2, 1904.

For that reason the grave of Mrs. Remington was dug seven feet deep, and she was buried leaving room for the casket of Mrs. Fuller to be placed upon it, according to their last-death compact.

NO WAR WITH JAPAN, SAYS SECRETARY TAFT

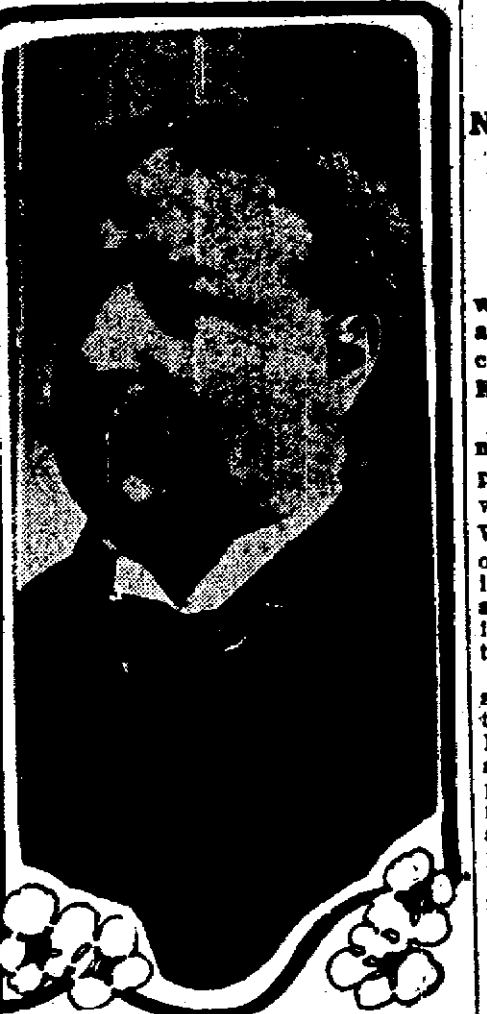

BARON KUROKI SAILS FOR HOME Mikado to Assume Important Place at the Hague.

MILWAUKEE, June 11.—Secretary of War Taft, in an interview, said there will be no war with Japan. He has faith that the United States and Japan will continue peacefully together. The Secretary said: "War with Japan? Don't you believe it. Never mind the news that keeps coming. You can quote me emphatically as saying that I have an abiding faith that the United States and Japan will continue their way along most peacefully together. You can rest assured of that."

"Concerning the complaint of Mrs. Ayres against officials at West Point, and the report that she has included me personally in the affair, I have nothing whatever to say beyond the statement that the proper department of the government has taken the matter up."

JAPAN UNCOMMUNICATIVE.

TOKIO, June 11.—Apparently Japan approaches the Hague with a tentative program to be given definite shape by the developments of the conference. The government, beyond formal expression of a desire that the conference might be productive of beneficial results, has maintained much reserve regarding its attitude on the larger questions which will come up, but prominent men in both official and private life have not concluded their belief that any practical results are at hand.

CHICAGO, June 11.—The bacillus will meet death by electrocution should a new method of sterilization proclaimed yesterday by Dr. Carl H. von Klein come into general practice.

Two wires charged with positive and negative currents and a metallic bowl, preferably copper, are the weapons which Dr. von Klein slays the germs. With one of the wires applied to the outside of the vessel, the other resting in the fluid it contains, he claims swift and sure death by electrocution is meted out to the unwelcome life therein.

SELL THEATER

Harry La Rose and Company are at the Bell theater this week presenting the unique comedy, "The Sailor and the Horse." It is one of the best acts the Bell has ever offered its patrons. It is altogether a novel and remarkable sketch with a plot of the best kind. The plot hinges about the efforts of a sharper to sell a sailor a broken-down race horse. The sailor's sudden return to form and the winning of a $5,000 purse by the aged squire. The act is cleverly done and the ending is not anticlimactic with the use of the curtain, a fault of many of the skits furnishing amusement for vaudeville patrons.

POISON FAILING, ORCHARD SET BOMB TO SLAY

PLACED DYNAMITE WHILE PEOPLE WERE PASSING Slayer Fled on Car Without Waiting to See San Franciscan Blown Into Street by Explosive.

BOISE, June 11.—Richardson in cross-examination of Orchard brought out that Orchard contemplated blowing up of a boarding house filled with non-union men at Globeville, near Denver, in 1905.

Orchard testified that Max Malich, a storekeeper at Globeville, asked him to blow up the "scabs."

BOISE, June 11.—By noon today Harry Orchard, under cross-examination, had described in detail the explosion at the Bradley residence in San Francisco and was giving particulars of the attempts in Denver to assassinate Governor Peabody and Supreme Court Judge Gabbert of Colorado in December, 1904.

Continuing his cross-examination of Harry Orchard today, the defense in the case of Wm. D. Hayward attacked the testimony of the witness as to the dynamiting of Fred Bradley of San Francisco and besides endeavoring to show discrepancies and improbabilities in it, sought to make it appear that it had been first inspired by Detective McFarland.

There was first an effort to show that Orchard had never seen nor heard of the Japanese servants who claimed to be the ones who blew up until steps at the Linforth residence the McFarland told him about him.

Orchard denied this and swore that he saw the Japanese and that he had waited for the Japanese to leave the porch before he placed the bomb.

WOULD DISCREDIT STORY.

Then the defense endeavored to discredit the story of the purchase of dynamite from the Judson Powder Company, and the entire claim that a bomb was used in the explosion at the Linforth building was blown outward and that Bradley had been "blown into the street."

Attorney Richardson demanded that the witness explain the explosion of a bomb had had this effect.

Orchard said he could not explain the matter, but expressed the opinion that Bradley was standing at the door of the house and that the explosion had blown him into the street.

At the request of the defense Orchard stood before the jury and drew a diagram of the entrance to the Linforth flats.

BOISE, June 11.—When Orchard resumed the stand at the opening of court today, Attorney Richardson contended to question the witness about the attempts he made upon the life of Fred Bradley in San Francisco. Orchard said that he roomed near the Bradley home, being able to overlook it from his bedroom window.

The confiding witness declared that he had bought some dynamite for a bomb before the attempt to poison Bradley by putting strychnine in the milk failed. Orchard testified it was the Judson Powder Company that he bought the explosive from. Asked the appearance of the clerk who waited on him, Orchard said he was a young-looking Irishman. In buying the powder Orchard was required to give his name. He could not remember what name it was—it was a fictitious one, thought of on the spur of the moment. As an excuse for buying the ten pounds of dynamite, Orchard told the clerk he wanted to blow out some stumps on his ranch.

Don't you know there are no stumps within 150 miles of San Francisco? demanded Richardson.

"I know that there are; I've seen them on the way to California Springs."

WAITED FOR BRADLEY.

Orchard gave a nearly as he could description of the various places where he had lived while in San Francisco before moving to the Bradley neighborhood. He could not remember the names of the streets or the numbers of the houses. Orchard told of a pleasure trip he had taken to California Springs while waiting for Bradley to return from Alaska.

"Played cards while there?"

"Yes."

"You were a handy man with the cards, weren't you?"

"I don't know what you mean by that."

name of a well-known customer of the firm?"

"There were several names."

Orchard said he had heard from McFarland about the suit of the owner of the apartments against the San Francisco Gas Company after the explosion of the Bradley home. On Orchard's statement Detective McFarland and Governor Goodwin made affidavits for use by the gas company in moving for a new trial.

"Do you know that the motion for a new trial based on these affidavits had been overruled by the court?"

"No, sir; I heard the judgment was stayed."

"But that was on appeal."

"I don't know about that."

PEOPLE PASSED BOMB.

Orchard said that the morning he placed the bomb at the front door of the Bradley house, people were passing on their way to work. The lead bomb was inside a wooden box. Orchard took a down-town car and was out of earshot before the explosion occurred.

From the examination of the place after the explosion, don't you know that the walls were blown out instead of in? asked Richardson.

"They were all shattered."

Orchard said that as Bradley opened the door he would be sideways to the bomb and the explosion would be more likely to blow him out than in.

The witness, with the same calmness that has marked his demeanor throughout, drew a diagram for the attorneys showing just where he had placed the bomb and where Bradley would be with the opening of the door. At the suggestion of Judge Wood, Orchard left the witness chair and walked over to the jury box, where he explained the diagram to the twelve men. He did not hesitate in supplying any detail demanded by Richardson.

"DIDN'T SEE HIM GO."

Orchard said it was from the newspapers that he learned Bradley had been blown into the street.

Then you don't know positively that he was blown into the street? said Richardson.

"I didn't see him go," said Orchard, unperturbed.

In reply to questions Orchard said he went to the corner grocery a few days after the explosion to learn Bradley's condition.

"Why didn't you read the papers for that, too?" Richardson wanted to know.

"Because I didn't believe all I saw in the papers."

The grocer said the explosion was generally attributed to gas, but he thought it was a bomb. "I told him I didn't think so at all," declared Orchard.

CRITICISE ROOSEVELT.

Orchard next told of returning to Denver after receiving more money from Pettibone. He disguised himself as a soldier and wore glasses.

"Don't you know that soldiers never wear glasses?" asked Richardson.

"I didn't know it, no," said the witness.

Then Attorney Hawley for the State elicited in "You forget Mr. Roosevelt?"

"Yes, Mr. Roosevelt," said Orchard.

"And he wasn't at San Juan," declared Mr. Nugent, of the defendant's counsel.

Orchard said he had sent several San Francisco papers to Pettibone.

Arriving in Denver he went first to see Pettibone. He then met Steve Adams and went with Billy Ackerman to live at Adams' house. Mrs. Adams cooking the meals.

"Didn't Steve Adams have to move because he couldn't pay the rent?" asked Richardson.

"No, sir, we had plenty of money. The old place was not satisfactory."

Orchard continued to live with the Adams family from before Christmas, 1905, to February, 1906. Richardson asked many questions to the number both Orchard and Adams were poverty stricken all winter long.

The witness repeatedly declared that both men were well supplied with funds, the money coming from Pettibone and Haywood.

Orchard said he made Bradley's condition out worse to Pettibone and Adams than it really was when he reported to them. He had heard the man was not permanently injured.

"You lied, did you?" snarled Richardson.

"Yes."

"Was your habit to lie about everything, wasn't it?"

"Whenever it suited my purpose better."

"Orchard has always been a liar, now, haven't you?"

"I have lied at times since I began to go."

"And you started wrong pretty early, didn't you?"

"Somewhere between 25 and 30 years old."

Richardson asked the witness if he sent any of the money he received for the Bradley affair to either of his wives. He said he had not. He supposed Pettibone was looking out for his Cripple Creek mine.

"But nobody was caring for your Canadian wife?"

"No, sir," replied Orchard.

The witness bit his lower lip and seemed to show one of his very rare traces of feeling in his voice.

"Isn't it a fact," continued Richardson, "that you were wronged at Cripple Creek and sold her wash tubs in order to get things to eat?"

"No."

"You were wronged, and you promised to look out for her when I left Colorado."

"An incident typical of the entire cross-examination next occurred. Richardson asked:

"Did you talk to Haywood about sending money to your wife?"

"Yes," replied Orchard.

"Where?"

"In Pettibone's back yard."

"No, sir, it does nothing of the sort," said Orchard, positively. "We talked about it the day they wanted me to go to California to get Bradley's report."

CLINGS TO DETAILS.

As to the details of his story, Orchard seems inflexible. He repeats them as often as Richardson desires and seems to make a point of repeating them.

Orchard said it was while he was living with Steve Adams that he was demanded that their house be placed in safety, but in order to do this the Council will have to provide the same for Gabbert because he felt the use of dynamite would get everybody in trouble," said Orchard. His idea in continuing to kill was to get the ranch, Haywood, Meyer and Pettibone had promised him.

"And you were ready to kill everybody in Colorado for an $800 ranch?" suggested Richardson.

"I don't know about that."

LOST AT CARDS.

Once more Richardson reverted to Orchard's gambling proclivities. Three or four times a day the subject has come up since the cross-examination began.

This time Haywood's attorney wanted to know what sort of games Orchard played. He said he played faro bank, draw poker, stud poker and black jack.

He denied that he had ever run a game and in response to a question which had been propounded nearly a score of times before, insisted that he lost at gambling more often than he won.

Orchard said he looked about Judge Gabbert's house several nights hoping for a chance to shoot him.

CONFESSES COWARDICE.

"Why didn't you go up and ring the doorbell and pump it into him?" asked Richardson.

"Because I was too cowardly," said Orchard without a moment's hesitation. "You never allowed anybody else to call you a coward, did you, in those days?"

"I don't know about that."

"You considered yourself a very brave man, didn't you?"

"I call the things I've done very cowardly," said Orchard in a low, even voice.

Richardson asked Orchard as to some of Haywood's public utterances about the time the Peabody attempt was being made, one of the Western Federation of Miners did not care who was governor.

"Mr. Haywood often said things on the outside that he talked differently to us," said Orchard.

"You used to do the same thing, didn't you?"

"Yes, I did up to the time I changed and decided to tell the truth."

Orchard was being questioned as to the make-up of the bombs prepared for Governor Peabody when the luncheon recess until 1:30 p. m. was ordered.

CHIEF BALL WANTS MORE FIREMEN AND APPARATUS

Fire Chief Ball is arranging plans for a general improvement of the fire department of this city, and when he gives his yearly estimate of expenditures, it will contain many recommendations for the purchase of additional fire houses and apparatus.

Chief Ball stated this morning that he believed that the fire department should be overhauled and more facilities added. "I would like to ask for a permanent department," he said, "that is to have more men and have all paid salaries, but this will not be necessary until we can get more engines and apparatus and additional fire houses. My estimate, which has not been prepared as yet, will contain several recommendations, which I hope the Council will accede to."

NEED MORE FIREMEN.

"Insurance is high in many portions of the city, owing to the lack of fire protection. The taxpayers are now demanding that their houses be placed in safety, but in order to do this the Council will have to provide the same for houses, more men and additional apparatus."

At the meeting of the City Council last night, a resolution, providing for the installation of twenty-nine additional fire hydrants in unprotected portions of the city, was adopted, at the request of Councilmen Harold Everhart and H. T. Burns.

The police department's estimate will also be larger than heretofore, as Chief of Police Wilson will ask for additional patrolmen, as well as an increase in the salaries of detectives, sergeants and captains. A movement is now on foot to have the patrolmen's salaries increased.

The other departments' estimates will also be larger than usual, owing to increased volume of business being done, and the increase in the cost of materials.

Auditor Gross declared this morning that he could not estimate the amount which it would cost to run the city government the next fiscal year, nor the amount that has been expended this year. A shortage of 1906 this year will have to be carried over into next

LAST HONORS FOR W. W. DAVIS

All that was mortal of the late William Wallace Davis, who died Sunday at Providence hospital, was this afternoon reduced to ashes by cremation. Funeral services for the kindly and aged pioneer were held at 2:30 o'clock in the First Christian church, the Rev. Thomas A. Boyer, pastor officiating.

There were numerous members of the congregation present to honor the departed who was one of the founders of this church and who had attended its services all the years of its existence up to the time of his last illness. There were also present representatives from Sequoia lodge, F. and A. M., of which Mr. Davis was a member and other Master Masons and Knights Templar participated in paying last honors to their deceased brother and friend.

Children and grandchildren of the pioneer were present at the obsequies. Many beautiful floral tributes were laid upon the handsome casket.

The Rev. Boyer spoke of the many virtues of deceased, pictured his upright life and irrefragable character in words of praise and drew a lesson from the model of integrity, cheerfulness under adversity and after admirable traits which were so prominent in Mr. Davis.

Then the funeral cortege took its way to the crematory. The pall bearers were F. Lodgett, Will H. Brown, Paul Struckman, Thomas J. Thompson, I. Harrison Clay and H. H. Leonard.

FIRES SHOTGUN AT AUTO, BUT FAILS TO STOP IT

Speeding Motorists Scorn Attempt of Constable to Check Their Wild Race Through City.

Red lights and shotguns were not sufficient last night along East Fourteenth street to stop the mad driving of speed crazed motorists. Constable Thomas Carroll opened fire on a big touring car with four male occupants that was going at a rate, according to about fifty witnesses, of a mile a minute. The automobile passed out East Fourteenth street early in the evening when Carroll fired his shotgun at the machine which was number was so obscure that nobody could make out the figures. Nothing but a cloud of dust kicked up by the wheels was seen of the automobile until a few hours later when it returned along the same route at even a greater speed.

Constable Carroll and those who saw it say there were four men, two in each seat, with hats off and shouting at the top of their voices. Their hats were off and as far as could be ascertained, they were all young men out for a time and partially intoxicated.

Constable William Allen was stationed at High street with a red lantern and shotgun to check the speed of motorists while Constable Carroll was at Fruitvale avenue and East Fourteenth street in his township with a similar safeguard against speeding machines.

DISREGARD SIGNALS.

Despite the fact of this vigilance, one machine after the other would blow past without slowing up at the sight of the red lights and the report of shotguns. The people in this vicinity were out in arms last night and for the past few days have been considering the proposition of calling an indignation meeting to draft plans against the reckless motorists.

"This is one of the objections we have against the Criterion," said a Fruitvale resident this morning. "It is not the condition of the place that we care so much about as the people who drive there in automobiles and terrorize the neighborhood."

COULD NOT COUNT PARTY.

"There was a machine with four men that went along Fourteenth street last Sunday evening about 7:30 o'clock at such a high rate of speed that we could not see the number. Many people were on the street at the time, and it was a wonder somebody did not meet with an accident. It is not a rare thing for these autoists to turn their numbers inside out. We have seen many cases where the numbers hung with the figures to the back of the machines. If there is no way out of it, we will hold an indignation meeting and get about it as we see fit."

One machine was noticed a few days ago that had a street car sign reading, "Take the Next Car," hung over the number in such a way that the figures could not be discerned.

PRINCE FUSHIMI AND HIS SUITE NOW ENTERTAINED BY ENGLAND'S ROYALTY

A photo of the Japanese Prince Fushimi and the members of his suite, now the guests of King Edward. To avoid hurting the prince's feelings it was forbidden to play Sullivan's "Mikado" during his presence, but Prince Fushimi laughed at this, saying that he would even enjoy seeing the play.

CHATHAM, England, June 11.—The rumor, based on the admiralty that the music of Sullivan's "Mikado" should not be played on British warships in order not to offend the susceptibilities of the Japanese, is still in force, but a curious circumstance has arisen and Chatham is laughing over what is called "The Japanese Insulting Themselves." The Japanese cruiser Terukuba is lying in the harbor here, and, according to the bandmaster of the cruiser, has chosen Sullivan's music to play the after-dinner dances given for the entertainment of visitors. The band's repertoire, written and played by Japanese, contains all the music of the "Mikado."

TROOPS CHARGE REVOLUTIONISTS

Serious Outbreak Follows Arrest of French Youth Carrying Anarchistic Banner.

MONTPELIER, France, June 11. — After the announcement of the resignation of the municipal council here last evening in accordance with the wine growers' program, the arrest of a youth for carrying a banner bearing the inscription "march on Paris; let us live the revolution," led to serious disorders. Hussars were called out and charged the people repeatedly. Several persons were injured and calm was only restored by the release of the prisoners. Marcel Albert, the leader of the movement, has issued a circular to all the committees inviting them to take united action in obedience to the recommendations of the Argeliers committee and to employ only peaceful means, adding:

"No mobs or violence. Our hour has not yet come. We still hope that it will never come."

Amateur Notes.

The Westerns added another victory to their list Sunday, June 9, by journeying to Melrose and defeating the home team by a score of 6 to 3. The line pitching of J. Davis, who struck out 12 men and the clever catching of Knapp, both of the Westerns, proved a feature.

The winners having a few open dates; would like to hear from any teams averaging 17 years and address any communications to F. Peterson, 1730 13th street, Oakland.

The Goldberg Bowens added another victory to their credit by out-playing the W. H. Campbells Sunday by a score of 3 to 2. The game was played on the East Oakland grounds, and the players were cheered on by a large aggregation of the employers from the two grocery stores who keenly felt the rivalry existing between the two teams.

The superior pitching of Blise of the Goldberg Bowens, however, took the ginger out of their opponents, as but two safe hits were secured from his delivery. His support was also good. Henry Mokol, who held down third base, having seven put-outs to his credit. Geo. Christwalte, who caught Blise, received a very painful injury to his hand and had to retire in the fifth inning.

The Standard Supply company defeated the Brooklyns of East Oakland in a seven-inning game yesterday afternoon by a score of 7 to 5. The Brooklyn's pitcher was "fell on" by the Supply company and batted all over the field. The lineup of the Standard Supply company is as follows: Catchers, Mac and Guy; pitchers, Tuttle and Grealy; 1st base, Constable; 2d base, Bond, short stop, C. Miller; 3d base, Henry Miller; left field, White; center field, Oswald; right field, H. Saxton. The Standard Supply company would like to hear from any out-of-town teams. Address all challenges to H. Constable, manager, residence: 16 East 16th street.

The Young Californians defeated the Young Spaldings Saturday morning by a score of 5 to 6.

The line-up of the Young Californians was: Robert Munro, catcher, Billy Smith, pitcher, Ray Fingers, first base, Harry Larne, second base, Frank Fields, short stop; Oscar Mason, third base, Ray Larue, left field, George Jeffries, right field, Adolph Kartenson, center field.

The Young Americans defeated the Young Oaks at St. Mary's College, Saturday, June 8th, by the score of 6 to 1. This makes the second time the Young Oaks have met defeat before the Young Americans.

The features of the game were Ern Dill and his brother Everett. The former was thrown with the stick all through the game, driving out a three-bagger. The latter was a trifle wild at first, but settled down and struck out ten of the Young Oaks.

Any team averaging 16 or even 17 years wishing a game with the Young Americans, will please address Chas. Fulweller, 1073 Fourteenth street, Oakland, or telephone Allen Cushing, phone Oakland 8413.

An interesting game of baseball was played yesterday between the Arrivals and the Independents, at 32nd and Adeline, the former winning by the score of 21-5. The features of the game were the batting of Jas. Donovan, who succeeded in getting four home runs out of five times at the bat, also the coming rival of Brick Deveraux, as to the hit bag. A. E. Wade, who made some difficult shots and also beats out bunts by fast running. Kid Beckman, who covered short for the Arrivals, played a grand game, taking 3 chances without an error. For the losers, Walt Taylor played a wonderful game, but alone he could not stop the visitors.

The Liberty Stars are yet invincible. They added another to their list by taking the Ashby's into camp by the score of 9 to 7, at Berkeley, Sunday. There were many features on the part of the Stars. In the second inning the Stars knocked a fly to R. Dickey, who scooped the ball, but quickly picked it up, tagged second, threw it to third and then Irwin threw it back to second and caught the runner. The Stars hit such men as Irwin, G. Brooks and Ralph Dickey getting hits. Dan Beckman, pitcher of the Stars, struck out twelve men. The line-up was as follows: Dan Beckman, pitcher; W. Mitchell, catcher. Grant Hunt,

Prefer the same beer—that is true.

But taste can be cultivated. And absolute purity

Judged by likes, the few best beers may not differ

Judged by purity, there is a vast difference in beers.
And purity means healthfulness, cleanliness, freedom from germs. It means a beer that cannot cause

OAK RUNS WIN AGAIN.
MARTINEZ, June 11.—The Oak Run of San Francisco defeated the fast local team here Sunday by the score of 12 to 6. The features of the game were the hitting of the visitors especially, and the fielding of Del Carlo, Sullivan and Eckfeld. Martin, the lanky pitcher from Oakland, twirled a steady game, and only in one inning did the home team do any amount of hitting. A large crowd witnessed the contest which is only the second one lost by the locals this season. They have beaten Black Diamond for the county championship and will play the crack Vallejo nine here this coming Sunday. The Oak Run goes to Petaluma this Sunday and Manager Sam Camp expects to win, as his team is now strengthened and will give a good account of themselves. Score: R. H. E. Oak Run 12 12 1
Martinez 6 6 2
Batteries—Oak Run, Sullivan and Eckfeld; Martinezes, Scott and China. Umpire, Fitzgerald.

Martinez Bros. Beat Railway Men

The Martinez Bros. defeated the Southern Pacific by a score of 3 to 1 after a hotly contested game. Hust for Martinez started the scoring in the first inning, reaching first on an error and scored on timely hitting by Whitman and Waterbury. Again in the fifth Martinez scored two on Holster's walk and hits by Whitman and Jeraux.

The Southern Pacific scored their lone tally in the fifth on Busher's single and double by Brown to left field fence.

Waterbury's pitching was very effective, striking out eleven men. Score: R. H. E. Martinez Bros. 3 7 1
Southern Pacific 1 6 2
Next Sunday Martinez will journey to Mare Island to meet the crack Marines.

What You Need to Win Success

Success is possible in this world to any man who has the energy to strive for what he wants. The only way to get what you want is to work for it, and work uses up energy. A man without energy has no inclination to work. It is proven that the vital energy of the human body is electricity.

Therefore I believe that electricity is the foundation of success.

Every part of your body is run by electricity. You cannot raise your arm, lift your foot, or move your body except by electric energy. You cannot exercise any of the functions of the body without bringing to it the electric force which permeates all forms and substances of digestion and assimilation and converts inert matter into blood, and bone, tissue and muscle, and organizes man's body into an electric machine and runs it as truly and perfectly by electric energy as the electric motor is run by electricity.

The nourishment that we get out of the food we eat is electricity. The digestive juices of the stomach produce this force by the chemical action upon the food. This electricity is used through the nerves to every muscle and tissue of the body to repair the waste caused by mental and physical exertion. When the waste is greater than the repair, the stomach cannot supply the necessary amount of electrical nourishment and a lowering of energy is the result. Then, (can't you see) the only way to restore or increase your energy is to restore electricity where it is needed? Electro-Vigor fills the nerves with new life, new vim, and outcrops the new courage and energy which makes a man a man.

Electro-Vigor is an electric body appliance which you wear while you sleep, and gives out a continuous current of electricity. You never have to charge it, for it makes its own power, and does not burn or blister the skin.

When I came to you I was in a very distressing condition. A continual drain had debilitated my system, and as invariably happens, the nervous system broke down. (also, to a man in such a condition life is nothing but a burden.)

I am happy to say that I am now perfectly healthy and full of energy, all through the use of Electro-Vigor. W. M. ROCKEFELLER, La Moine, Cal.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND HIS PARTY REACHED HOME IN WASHINGTON SAFELY

UNITED STATES "MAYFLOWER," ON WHICH THE PRESIDENTIAL PARTIES ARE, CARRIED ABOUT ON THE HIGH SEAS.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The converted yacht Mayflower having on board the President and party returning from the Jamestown Exposition reached her dock at 7:30 a. m.

While the Mayflower is not on the register as the presidential yacht that is really the rating of the Mayflower.

CAPITALISTS EAGER TO PURCHASE PARK BONDS

Work in Oakland's Proposed Pleasure Grounds to Be Rushed as Soon as Funds Are Secured.

Capitalists all over the country are looking this way at the present time, as next Monday, June 17th, the park bonds will be sold by the City Council. The bonds are in the sum of $992,000, and were recently voted by the electors of this city.

From all indications there will be great rivalry among the bidders next Monday night, as Oakland is regarded by capitalists, both Eastern and local, as being a good field of investment.

In the past, bonds issued by this city have brought large premiums and members of the City Council, as well as Mayor Mott, believe that the park bonds will be no exception to this rule, but on the other hand will bring higher bids. No difficulty has ever been experienced by this city in disposing of its bonds and from the statements of several capitalists, who will probably offer bids Monday night, the park bonds will go like hot cakes.

As soon as the bond money is obtained, active work will be begun at once on the new parks and playgrounds, under the supervision of Mayor Mott, who has a plan for the beautification of this city.

Sites for the parks, to be located in all portions of the city, have been picked out and will be purchased as soon as the money is forthcoming. Considerable work will have to be done before these sites will be ready for the laying out of the parks, but Mayor Mott is confident that within a short time, the residents will be enjoying the public pleasure grounds.

SHOT IN HIP BY SON-IN-LAW

As the result of domestic trouble, Gustave Young, a grocer, of 1462 Linden street, was shot in the hip last night by Bernard Taylor, his son-in-law, at the Taylor home, 455 Twenty-fourth street. Young had refused to allow his daughter, Taylor's wife, to go back to her husband, whom she had left, on account of alleged ill treatment.

OAKLAND OWNERS REAP PROFITS

The American Theater of San Francisco Enjoys Most Liberal Patronage.

Cohn Bros., proprietors of the Bell theater of this city, and joint owners in several large play houses throughout the United States, are meeting with deserved success in the American Theater of San Francisco. The splendid and attractive theater adjoining the Odd Fellows' Building, corner Seventh and Market streets, San Francisco, was packed to its fullest capacity last night to witness that clever and clean comedy, entitled the "Girl from Paris." Notwithstanding the poor facilities for transportation in San Francisco, a more representative and generous audience could not be found.

From the orchestra up to the innermost recesses of the gallery, the good-natured audience responded with hearty encore to the artists appearing in the cast. Miss Elizabeth Spencer, the prima donna, has won distinction as being one of the cleverest prima donnas of the country. The appearance of the sweet-voiced tenor soloist, Richard Jose, was the signal for an outburst of wild enthusiasm. Mr. Jose sang his great favorites, "Silver Threads Among the Gold," "Dolly Gray" and "Bell Brandon," responding to numerous encores. Judging from the liberal patronage last evening, which will be greatly increased on termination of the car strike, it is safe to predict the American a big money-maker for the owners living in Oakland.

CARPET IS STOLEN.
In the absence of Mrs. E. Permen of 101 Griffin avenue, San Jose, from a house she owns at 164 Eighth street, in this city, a thief entered the place and stole 210 yards of carpet from the floor. The theft was committed some time between April 27 and June 1. Mrs. Permen has notified the local police of her loss, but she can give no clue as to the identity of the thief.

LIQUOR KILLS IN JAIL CELL

Bernard McKenna, Serving Six Months' Sentence, Dies of Delirium Tremens.

After serving but a few days of a six months' sentence in the city prison, Bernard McKenna, a bricklayer, died this morning in his cell from delirium tremens. McKenna was sent to jail for refusing to support his wife and children, who reside at 895 Jefferson street. While in the jail he was given medical attention by Health Officer E. N. Ewer, who signed the death certificate.

McKenna was arrested on June 5 upon complaint of his wife, who alleged that her husband had been on a prolonged spree and neglected to furnish any money for her support. When McKenna was taken before Police Judge Smith he pleaded guilty to the charge of failure to provide for his minor children, but asked the court to exercise his leniency and give him another chance.

Mrs. McKenna was in court and upon being asked by Judge Smith if she could support herself and children without the aid of her husband, answered in the affirmative. Judge Smith then sentenced McKenna to the cell. The prisoner dropped his head and as his wife left the courtroom looked after her with an appealing gaze.

ARRESTS HIS GIRL FRIEND

Accused of tearing up a ticket to Denver, valued at $40, and the property of E. C. Hoise, Miss Alice Meyer, a pretty manicurist, 19 years of age, was arrested last evening at Sixteenth street station by G. S. McBee, a saloon keeper and friend of Hoise. Miss Meyer was charged with disturbing the peace, but was released on $25 bail.

Hoise, McBee and Miss Meyer were standing together, when, it is alleged, the young woman grabbed Hoise's ticket and tore it up, desiring to prevent Hoise from leaving Oakland.

Miss Meyer was arrested some time ago for stealing a diamond ring from a customer, while she was employed as a manicurist in a Fourth street barber shop. Hoise was arrested at the same time on a vagrancy charge, it being alleged that he had advised her to steal the ring. The matter was settled out of court, the ring being returned to its owner.

MILITIA MUST KEEP IN LINE

Their Organizations Required to Conform to That of Uncle Sam's Army.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Acting Secretary of War Oliver has addressed a letter notifying governors of states and territories that on January 1 next, under the terms of the Dick Militia act, the militia organization must conform to that of the regular and volunteer armies of the United States. He suggests that the various governors take the necessary steps to secure such conformity. General Oliver says:

"Failure to meet this statutory requirement will result in debarring a state from the use of the allotment of the annual appropriation of $2,000,000 for the support of the militia."

REPORTED TO POLICE.

Gaining entrance to the room of Norman McPhail at 352 Washington street by the use of a skeleton key, a burglar last night stole a dark brown plaid suit, a pair of shoes, a gold watch and silk robe. McPhail has notified the police of the theft.

J. H. Bennett of 611 Fourteenth street has reported that a large quantity of "wads" were stolen from his home last night.

WILL HE GET IT?

T. Miyako, a Japanese, residing at 523 Eleventh street, has so much confidence in the honesty of the resident of this city and San Francisco that he believes that a $500 greenback which he lost on May 31 will be returned to him. He has written the police of this city asking that anything is heard of the missing paper that it be returned to him.

Willie Talks of Rain in June

A mule by any other name would kick as hard and a rose by any other name would be just as expensive, this Summer. Say, isn't this the shiest Summer time that ever happened? Raining in June!

But there's nothing shy about some of the glad lingo you hear in the clothing ads. I was reading in a Los Angeles paper where one clothing man says: "We claim no supernatural endowments. We merely happen to be the first accredited experts of the new era in tailoring." Say, wouldn't that relax your risibles? He claimed no "supernatural endowments." He merely "happened" to be on the front bench when the harps were handed out. Wonder where they get that kind of duds. Another new togery outfit in the same burg talks of "Natural body models." That's a new thing that is going to replace padded shoulders and bell-shaped skirts. The new models are "cut in" to conform to the natural lines of your body. If your shape isn't like old Apollo Belvidery you'll "cut in" and Greek statuary will be "cut out." Cut in and see our head clothing man and you won't need to wear corsets to make our summer suits conform. They were properly cut in and cut out before they left the cutters—not cut by hand by Nature's noblemen. What's the matter with Willie's glad dictionary?

Our suits at $15.00 look like the other fellow's at $20.00.

Lord Byron Said

"Ready money is an Aladdin's lamp. A little ready money and a half-hour at Lehnhardt's is like a savings bank, with the single difference that you draw your dividend right away instead of waiting six months for it. Your investment is just as safe and possibly a great deal more profitable than hoarding money, although it is far from my purpose to say anything against laying up a little money for a possible emergency. It is presumed that you will not spend all your surplus. Saving today is merely spending tomorrow—else what use in saving? The most important thing to husband is your health, and that is often conserved by an intelligent dietary. Last luncheon at Lehnhardt's this warm weather is energizing and salubrious."
